FOREWORD

Modernism, Realism, Idealism, all are fused in one—Achievement. With bold, heavy strokes, nicety of shading, clean cut lines, Achievement stands out in our age in high relief. Its spirit moves across the pages of this slim volume. But the half has not been told -----

Prelude

"Arise and go—"
So spake the Prophet on a yesterday.

Heralds—a star—the coming of the Messiah,
Glorious Yesterdays.
Knights—a cup—Exploits of chivalry,
Golden Yesterdays.
Kings—an empire—extending power,
Ambitious Yesterdays.
Pioneers—a new land—conquering the wilderness,
Brave Yesterdays!
Patriots—a democracy—Fighting for freedom—
Dauntless Yesterdays.
I write of this.

There are
Nations—a league—seeking world peace.
Cities—stardust—thriving under noise and din.
There are
Things—aeroplanes—exploring the clouds,
Skyscrapers—with souls—reaching into the blue.
There are
People—each one—striving for the meaning
Together—one plan—searching for truth,
Achieving, foreshadowing, eager todays.
I speak of this.

As a hand paints
A long stroke—a shading—light;
Tomorrows will depict
A move forward—climbing the rough—truth
As we realize a painting,
A beautiful whole—flaming color—invisible pigments,
We will live tomorrows.
A marvelous union—glowing fragments—sky spirit.
I tell of this.

"Arise and go—"
So spake the Prophet.

—LOUISE ELLIOTT, '32.

All Ye That Lead

Dedicated to the Faculty

I have seen a master, seated on his dais; expounding, gesticulating, forcing lines and numbers of truth into the souls of little ones, and of those who having grown tall, still seek knowledge day by day. Seated thus, at his feet, they gain but a blighted knowledge, having fear of crushing and oppression. And I hear them saying "Rabbi"—master.

I have seen a teacher seated on the floor with children, loving, guiding, playing with them. Their little faces looking up, hold adoration in their radiance.

I have seen a teacher, seated at a table with his students, talking, explaining as with equals; carrying on in sane discussion, knowledge of arts and sciences with that of Life. And I have heard the students call him, "Friend."

Having seen such miracles of love, such growing into beautiful humaneness, we understand the soul of those who are friend and teacher all in one.

Research

Inky blackness lay everywhere.
Thunder roared like a legion of ogres.
No star of truth pricked the void.
Slimy, grotesque shapes retreated,
Advancing into the darkness.
Lo, a vision pale emerging,
A figure clad in silver,
Shattering darkness with his spear
From whose shining points shafts
Of brightness radiate.
Golden dawn usurps the blackness;
Advances the slender breathless warrior,
The herald, robed in garments
To match in sheen the gleaming stars.
Thus light breaks the spear points
Into a thousand, flaming quivers,
Symbols circling the heavens,
Read only by the Seekers of Light.

Scarlet Heels

Louis Quatorze wore scarlet heels.
He was low in stature; so he raised himself
Upon scarlet heels—
Louis Quatorze—great Bourbon, statesman, King!

Peter the Great built Petrograd,
Raised its fairy spires and turrets
From the marshes—
Peter—great czar—empire-builder!

One man raised a city—wrested
From the treacherous mud, a city
With tall white buildings and shining streets—
The fairest city of all the realm—
Worthy abode of kings.

Another—Le Roi Sibil
Greatly vexed by his inadequate stature
By his wits o'ercame it.
He was a Bourbon—with the figure of a page boy—
And he rebelled against
His insignificance—
Upon scarlet heels he raised himself to the True stature of a King.

And of the two, which was the greater?
Peter raised a city—
Louis raised himself—
It is the rise—the progress—
Of individuals that make
Nations great—
So—To your scarlet heels!

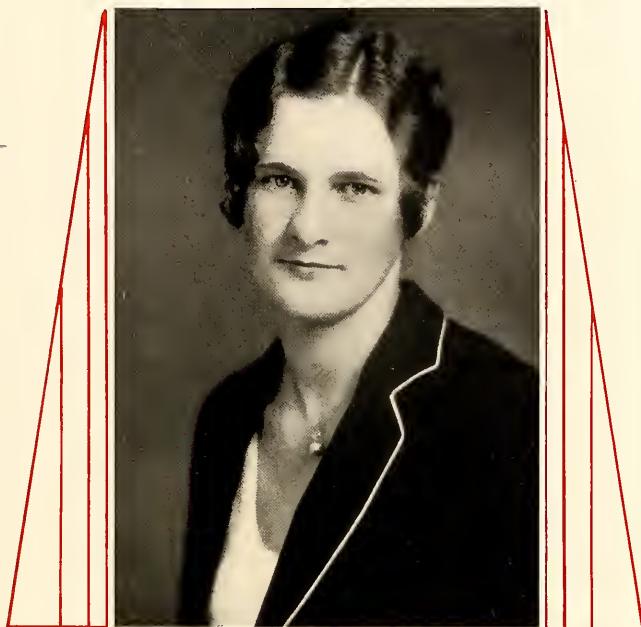

—ALICE LEB. RIBBLE, '31.

Transition

“How then shall we put new wine in old skin?”

A word, a phrase, a dash,
A question—delving into even dreams,
Quietness, heart beats, laughter;
And men's fancies.
Courage, forever seeking truth
And giving it.

The Past, a jest, the Present, bitter tangles.
The Future . . . Ah, dauntless dream,
Something to adore—
A shining infinite!

—FRANCES WHITEHEAD, '32.

Tribute

Time for play!
The world echoes.
Little children playing
Singing nursery rhymes,
Their mothers taught them,
Playing games their hearts
Delight in—
Learning how to laugh in play.

Time for play!
Again the wide world echoes.
Youth comes forth upon the field
To play the game of life.
Dauntless and determined,
But playing with abandon.
Knowing that in play,
Lie secrets of strength!

Time for play!
Once again the world echoes.
Maturity is entering the game;
Forgetful of age and its cares,
Finding itself young again,
Laughing in the game!
And thus rises Play, a living tribute
To the America that is eternally young.

—DOROTHY MAY SNEDEGAR, '33.

ACTIVITIES

The Spirit of the Worker

The Body, strained of late
And worn, called to fate,
(The Body but the master of the earthen shell)
And kneeling in that place
Implored a gift of grace
To make the toil seem less a living hell.

The Spirit came and stood
To speak, then dropped its hood
Revealing, as ne'er before, its piercing inner soul.
If faith live in your work,
Can you that duty shirk
To make your toil seem less the galley's role?

Oh Body, know you not
Yours is the treasured lot?
Labor, 'tis the essence of joy on earth.
Take heart, call this to mind,
Though fate seem hard, unkind,
And give my spirit now a second birth.

Is work the heartless master,
Or is time just moving faster?
Stay! Success will come while yet you struggle so—
Can I, the Spirit, rest . . .
While you give second best?
Nay, not till the arms of Heaven lay me low."

The Body, rested, cool—
Play now no more the fool,
But laughing—rose to mold things yet unheard.
It seemed kind Heaven's grace
Had fallen on the place
And blessed the very spirit and its word.

—LOULIE MILLNER, '32.

The Honor System

To live our life at its best, to grow into wider freedom, to make and to accept the pervasive college spirit, to leave Farmville a little stronger than we found it—for this the Honor System came into being and for this the Student Government Association exists.

Code of Ethics of the Pan-Hellenic Association

This association desires to go on record as believing that membership in the association obligates every sorority on its roll and every initiate thereof:

To co-operate with college authorities.

To respect and obey the letter and the spirit of any agreement made by the college and the association.

To refrain from the discussion of sorority disagreements.

To refrain from speaking disparagingly of any sorority or non-sorority girl.

To regulate personal conduct so that it shall at all times conform in spirit and appearance with the accepted standards of good breeding.

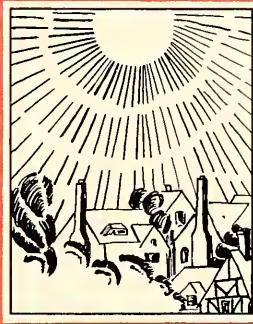

To conduct all rushing as inconspicuously as possible and to make the lines of demarcation between sorority and non-sorority girls as slight as possible.

To remember that of those to whom much is given much is required.

To remember that sorority badge is not a mark of superiority, but a pledge to high endeavor.

To remember that the unity of sororities in the teacher's field means mutual improvement and protection, and to maintain the high standards for which the teachers must strive.

To remember that a girl who smokes, drinks, or breaks college rules, is not conforming to the letter or to the spirit of Pan-Hellenic standards.

Enlightenment

The stars were out and hour ago,
A lonely vigil keeping—
But there were very few to know
There brightness; earth was sleeping
Like stars gold, great men of old
Once made their shining mark—
But they were few—in the dark.

And now Dawn's chilly fingers dress
In primrose the skys,
And I gaze at the loveliness
With spaces in my eyes;
The stars are dim. Around the rim
Of earth, the light of knowledge flies—
Man's heart to Heaven's truth replies—

The sun will rise to break our dreams,
And then it will be soon
That light held in a flamer gleams
To make the yellow noon.
As shines the sun, so truth will run
Around the world from pale to pale.
Nor stop till it pervades each soul.

ALICE ST. ABLES HARRISON, '32.

Creed

Superlatively strong,
I revel in my strength.
At times I almost believe
I could lift the whole universe—
Churches, schools, people, stars and all.
One day I did carry a huge trunk upstairs,
But I was not tired.
My energy knows no bounds.

I delight to run with all my might,
To play the game hard and straight,
With no little by-paths of deceit,
No false coverings for petty things.
I admire straight-forwardness,
People who have ideals, and scruples—
And stand up for them.
But that is not all.
I can see, in the etchings of these trees,
Black on flaming orange,
Something more than a gorgeous sunset:
My eyes seem cool and calm,
But in their shadows dwells the soul-fire which—
Hates ugliness with a passion.
That is the part of me which,
Seeing tall pine trees
Stretching toward an infinite heaven;
Stretches out an upward with them,
Seems to be a oneness with God and the universe.

I portray athletic youth,
Seeing beyond the flame of orange,
Now fading into purple shadows,
Where lies the realization of all
The hopes and faint yearnings,
Of true womanhood.

EASTER SOUDERS, '32.

Vision

Above, the sky is always thus,
Unchanging in its elements.
The earth below is a teeming rush
Of hopes and fears by sages told,
Which man through progress still does hold.

Each man within his hemisphere,
Lowly cave man up through time,
To present statesman most austere,
Contributes in his subtle way
A note of progress to his day.

The past will guide its wondrous way,
Changing skies capricious storm.
We gauge the future by today,
By sky palaces of modern gods.

—KAY E. SCHROEDER, '32.

VANITY FAIR

Men Call Me Mad

Men tell me I am mad
Because of the slim crawling lines
Flowing from my brushes end;
Gaping wide-eyed at my
Bounding and bouncing rings
Circling across a cloth of fine design.

My colors appall, when I
Splash red and orange on a
Purple sheen. They are entranced
With my moonlight silver
Blending with frothy green.

Men hasten to say I am ill,
When from a bit of ivory
Or a massive block of marble,
I bring forth a figure
Straight-lined and muscular.

They may well ponder over
My translation of steel and stone
Into giant structures,
Nosing the stars, structures
Evolving from a blueprint
From rods of steel and stone blocks.

Yet I'm willing but to labor—
If it be Art for Art's sake;
For this, I dip into all inspiration.
Knowing well my vision; yet
Men still must call me mad,
For my much seeking.

—KATY FRIEL SANDERS, '32.

DEDICATION

We do lovingly dedicate this JAZZ section to the "kitten on the keys." That was one of the "big jokes of the night." We believe cats have always had a sense of humor anyway, remembering the grinning Cheshire cat.

FOREWORD

In case you don't know it, we want to tell you that this section is humorous. In case you don't think so, try the jokes on some of your English friends.

HUMOR

THE VIRGINIAN OF 1930

Jazz

Just a rhythm
Not a tune,
Holding heart throbs
and a moon!

Holding passion
And desire,
Setting heart
and blood
on fire!

Shuffling feet,
Shaking frame,
Shivering timbers,
Why
The Shame!

Listen! Feel it
Shaking you?
Got it? Keep it!
Gee,
it
grips
you!

Boom! Boom!
That's Jazz!

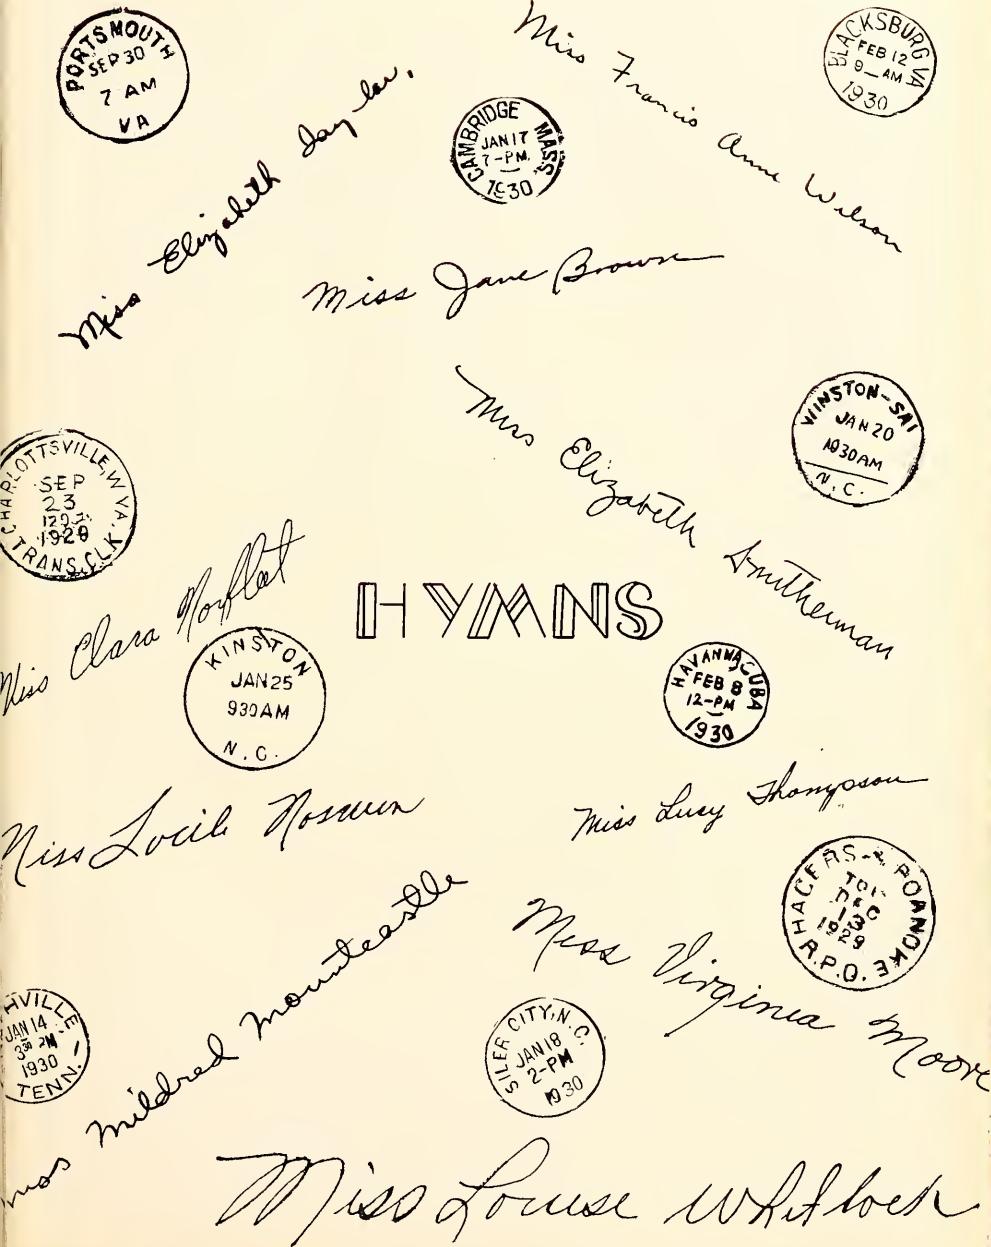

—FRANCES WHITEHEAD, '32.

JAZZAGES

Discords

We should pause and recognize the young lady who skipped the black and white keys and sang only the cracks. That is discord!

---

Freshman: "Oh, please put me in Room 76."

Senior: "I'll see what I can do—but why?"

Freshman: "It's the room mother used to have."

---

Aunt Lucy (after the maid's bell has rung for ten minutes): "Did ah hear yuh ring?"

Visitor: "Oh no, indeed! We were just tolling. Thought you were dead."

---

Co—: "How is it that you did not marry Jim, after all?"

Ed—: "Oh, I boasted a lot about my rich aunt in order to impress him and now he is going to be my uncle."

---

We shouldn't mind discords, but they are beastly hard on the hearing organisms. Don'tcha Know?

---

Anne Stump: (giving a George Washington test) "What river did Washington cross on Christmas Eve?"

"Little" Laura: "Why, the Potomac, of course."

---

"Western Onion," said the New Yorker as he passed the hot-dog stand.

---

Mr. Moss: (attempting to quiet an hilarious class) "Order! Order!"

Clara Norfleet: "Two rolls and a cup of coffee."

---

S. T. C. Questionnaire

5. Did Miss Mary every catch you jumping out of the window when the front door was locked?
6. Does your allowance last until the end of the month?
7. Were any of your ancestors addicted to:
  - a. Sidewhiskers
  - b. Croquet
  - c. Dotted nightgowns
  - d. Zithers
  - e. Ear trumpets
  - f. Lorgnettes
8. Do you have dates with Hampden-Sidney boys?
9. Have you ever used zinc ointment on your tooth brush?
10. On which side did your great-grandmother sleep?
11. Do you cut campus?
12. How is your Aunt Minnie?
13. Do you adore Rudy Vallee?
14. Can you play contract?

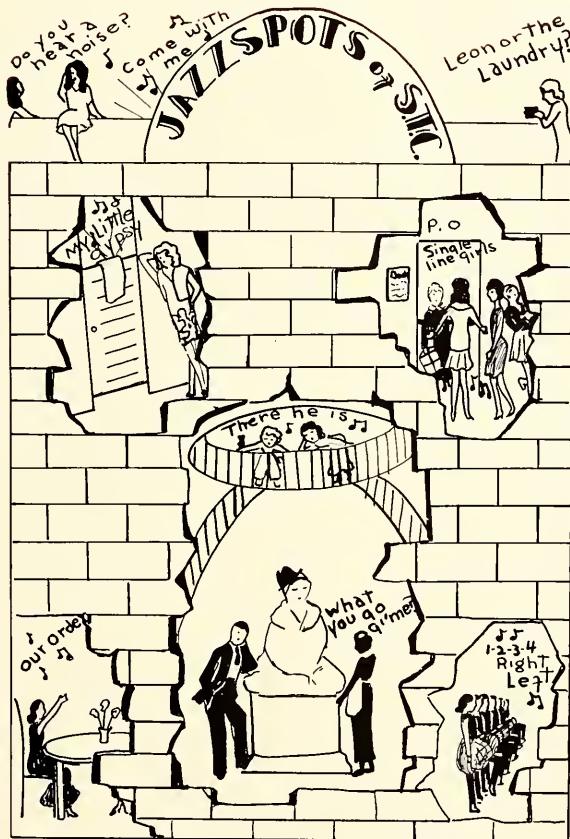

(This survey is being made by the Rockneigie Foundation for the Dumb. Be sure to send your answer before you apply for your teaching position.)

Do You Talkie?

(Not a Chinese Translation.)

my dear, i mean these TALKies are SIMPLY driving me WILD. i ACTually spend ALL my allowance on SHOWS. i mean i HAVE to do it. i used to think i was a hi-jacker, the very last word. now—i am as bad as a COLLEGE widow, COMpletely on the shelf. but i MEAN i'm not one HALF as DUMB as some of our MUTual friends. why, i mean i really did hear somebody say, while "if i had a talking picture" was being played, that she WOULD be WILLing to sit through "IF i were king" again JUST to hear RUDY VALLEE sing it.

and that SAME person answered a player who said "sez yon" with an "oh yea." IMAGINE NOT knowing "sez me" from the "Cock-eyed world." such IGNORANCE! believe me, i don't want to be classed as a very NICE girl 'n that's ALL. I really have done some CLEVER things—the other night i went to a dance and my partner asked if i knew the LATest dance step. OH YES i said, "BOOP BOOP, A DOOP!" I wonder WHY he laughed. i mean EVEN if you have learned to make stunning clothes just by clipping the little COUPON, are able to order a WHOLE dinner in FRENCH, use listerine REGULARLY—not EVEN your best friend will tell you WHY you are often a BRIDES maid, NEVER a BRIDE if you miss FOUR talkIE hits. even Greta Garbo can't STAND the strAIN. come on now let's go down to the Eaco—to see "gold diggers of Broadway." I mean i cant be UTTERLY IGNORANT. BEsides i want to learn "tiptoe through the tulips."

Jokes

A DRAMA ENTITLED "WHY WORRY?"

Scene: A Place.

Time: Two minutes after.

Cast: All gone.

---

With all due apologies to those that run, walk, or trot, I do will and bequeath the following notes to those that skip—classes.

---

TWO FOR FIVE

The girls who put five cents between them into the collection plate.

---

Then there's the girl, who, when the exam time came, couldn't remember a quotation from Tennyson but knew how he "went"; so she wrote:

For I dipped into the ink bottle, far as point of pen would go;
Found no thoughts within its deepness, and no ink to make them flow.

She passed the course!

Said the cut note
To the flunk note,
"Why are you here?"
Said the flunk note
To the cut note,
"Because you are here!"

Scotchman: "How much does it cost to send a telegram to Pittsburgh?"

Clerk: "Fifty cents for ten words; the signature doesn't cost anything."

Scottie: "Well—You say the signature doesn't cost anything? I am an Indian.
Suppose you send in this signature, 'I-wont-be-home-'til-Friday.'"

---

All this reminds us that there are many discords between er—victrolas, and roommates, etc.

German: (In a drug store) I vant to buy a face powder."

Clerk: "Mennens?"

German: "No, no, no, vimmins."

Clerk: "Scented?"

German: "No, I take it mit me."

---

Grace Tritton: (in art class) "How I do wish we had something in oil!"

Nannie Belle Clendenin: "Huh, you haven't forgotten those sardines yet.
Have you?"

Abie Shultzheim: "Ah, Ikie, I was just wondering. What do all these little letters stand for in this college catalog?"

Ikie Swartz: "Oh you don't know what that means! Dot stands for brains.
B. S. means Bachelor of Science; M. D.—Doctor of Medicine;
Ph. D., Doctor of Philosophy."

Abie: "Oh yes, I see!"

Abie met Ikie a week later, he handed him a card, printed thus:

ABIE SHULTZHEIM, F. F. F. F. F.

Ikie: "But, vot does all this mean?"

Abie: "Dot stands for brains."

Ikie: "I don't see why."

Abie: "I'll tell you—F. F. F. F. means two failures, two fires, vun fortune.
Brains!"

Footnote: This really did happen (?)

---

We would tell a joke about freshmen—but who would tell the joke about the dumb little freshman who threw her laundry over the Rotunda one Sunday night when she was told to do so . . . It's much too trite!

---

A recent lecturer described the white race as one of big noses. If that's the case, we all have liberty, because it has been said: "Your liberty extends as far as your nose!"

---

Lela Germany: "Cov, where were you at the dance last night?"

Cov: "Oh—we went out on the porch to learn some new steps."

Lela: "Were they hard?"

Cov: "No, we had some nice cushions."

An Appreciation

The VIRGINIAN Staff wishes to take this opportunity to thank the members of the Student Body and Faculty who have co-operated in publishing THE VIRGINIAN of 1930. We have endeavored to portray in this volume every phase of the College. Such a portrayal would have been impossible, we realize, without the assistance given us.
